ABOUT US

#powerofthepair #bettertogether

For Third Crown, New York based co-designers Kristin and Kofi Essel fuse their love of geometric shapes with the details found in their architectural surroundings to create their collection of men's and women's jewelry. Their shared desire to delve into the accessories world came early on for the co-creatives. After graduating from Florida State University with a BS in Apparel Design, Kristin interned at David Yurman before stints at Reed Krakoff (on the jewelry team) and then at Eddie Borgo. Kofi, studied Menswear at FIT and went on to spend time at Nautica, Global Brands, and other mens brands.

Applying their collective experience and passion, the husband-and-wife team launched thebrand and named it Third Crown to celebrate the merging of two forces coming together to form something new. Their gender neutral collections emphasize their brand message to encourage the union of powerful pairs. With their collection, the designers celebrate their mutual fascination with structure, architectural lines, and bold accents. Gold and silver plated brass are used to create a mood that's at once restrained but full of attitude. Each piece is defined by clean lines and an understated chic, turning them in to wardrobe essentials. In the short time since its debut, Third Crown has already caught the attention of style setters including Beyonce and Solange Knowles.
